Women Wait All Night For Opening of White Sox Park

Two of the many women fans who waited all night at the entrance to the White Sox grounds. They brought breakfast with them. They are left and right: Mrs. H. J. Hansman, and Mrs. W. A. Taylor.

GIANTS TAKE THIRD BIG GAME BY 2 TO 0

38 balls, 14 foul strikes, the White Sox made five hits, drove out 21 fields, and fouled three balls.

Benton Better Pitcher.

Cicotte, pitching 87 times, secured 27 strikes, 13 foul strikes, gave 26 balls and was fouled five times. The Giants reached him for eight hits; went out 16 times on fielding plays and J. Collins' two errors on Kauff's drive, account for the remainder.

While there was little if any advantage between the two pitchers, it appears to many as though Benton had more on the ball than Cicotte. His delivery came up with wide, sweeping curves or broke with almost right angle slants which had the White Sox missing or popping most of the time. The Chicago twirler varied his pitching to a greater extent than Benton and his control was as perfect as usual. To those who saw him work in the initial contest it appeared as though he did not have as sharp a curve or break as on Saturday when he turned back the Giants with 7 hits and 1 run. His record today was 8 hits and two runs while Benton let the White Sox down with 5 hits, no two coming in one inning.

Cicotte fanned 3 Giants to Benton's 5. Burns, Holke and Benton all felt white before the Chicago hurler's slant, while Benton's only double strike out victim was Cicotte. The New York team had twice as many runners stranded on the bases as the White Sox, the count being 8 to 4. Robertson led all the players with 3 hits at 4 times at bat.

Pitcher Possibilities.

Neither Kauff nor Jackson had a fielding chance and Robertson stole the only base. Neither pitcher gave a base on balls and none of the five errors contributed in any way to the score.

The few vacancies in either bleachers or stand were not visible from the field and the thousands rooted loud and frequently for the Giants. The White Sox however, were not friendless for there was a delegation of some hundred from Chicago and these lost no time to cheer. The stern cautioning by the umpires against "riding" of opponents, was effective and there was no repartee among the players and no disputing of the arbiters' decision. Earlier in the game there was some attempt to start and organized booing against Eddie Collins, apparently in retaliation for Zimmerman's treatment earlier in the series, but this was soon hushed down. In every other respect the contest was all that a world series contest should be. The sky was partly overcast and there was little wind but the cool, damp atmosphere made wraps a necessity.

With Cicotte turned back for a few days at least the Giant supporters are looking for McGraw to start either Schupp or Sallee in the next game, but the New York manager would give no inkling of his plan tonight. He confined his remark to a statement that at least the team had got going and that he expected them to continue the winning pace from now on. So far as could be learned from the Chicago team's headquarters Manager Rowland's choice tomorrow probably will lie between Faber and Russell.

HIS EYE SKINNED FOR 20 YEARS

Well-Known Expert Makes a New Find. New York, N. Y., Oct. 10.—T. B. Eiker, widely and favorably known throughout the country as an expert on new discoveries, announced today through the Burrell Chemical Co., New York city, that he has found a formula he had been on the lookout for for 20 years, which he has reason to believe is an unfailing treatment of so-called blizzards, receding gums, bleeding gums and loose teeth. The new prescription comes in the form of a medicated muslin ointment called pyorigg, which stays where it is put, unaffected by saliva, and is being dispensed in original packets, at one dollar, at best drug stores, including George S. Sade in Oneonta.

REFUTES NORTHCLEFFE.

Montreal, Canada, Oct. 10.—Rev. Dr. Charles Alexander Richmond, president of Union college, Schenectady, N. Y., and president of the New York State College President's association, at installation of Rev. Dr. George Adams, as pastor of the Emmanuel Congregational church, here Tuesday took issue with Lord Northcliffe that the United States is not fighting to make the world safe for democracy but to make the world safe for the United States.

Market Hops Down.

Waterville, Oct. 10.—The hop market is not very lively, and but very few sales are being made. There does not seem to be any material change in the market price, but the dealers are without orders and under such circumstances it is a hard matter to sell a crop. The fact is again illustrated that the time to sell is when some one wants to buy.

BOLO GOT SECRETS UNDER FALSE POSE PRETENDED AT CONFERENCE HE REPRESENTED ARMENIA

New York, Oct. 10.—A statement that Bolo Pasha, under arrest in Paris as alleged spy and peace propagandist, on behalf of Germany, posed as a representative of the Armenian people at a conference in Paris a month before the world war broke out, was issued here last night by Daniel Blumenthal, of the World League for the Reconstitution of Alsace-Lorraine.

Mr. Blumenthal, who is in the United States to advocate the return of Alsace-Lorraine to France, said he first encountered Bolo Pasha at the Paris assembly, which was made up of representatives of oppressed people.

"Bolo Pasha," Mr. Blumenthal said, "pretended he was present on behalf of the Armenian people and, accepted as such, was taken into the confidence of the delegates."

"What messages did he send back to Wilhelmstrasse?" Mr. Blumenthal's statement concludes. "Did he tell the German government that this man of Alsace-Lorraine was a traitor? That that Serbian or Croatin, was a traitor? Did he inform Turkey of the genuine Armenians there? Who can tell?"

MILK DRIVERS SOURED MILK

Actions Follow Threats to Grocers for Changing Dealers.

New York, Oct. 10.—Two milk drivers have been arrested here charged with souring milk in bottles delivered to a member of a co-operating milk association recently organized by grocers in the Bronx to buy direct from the producers. The court was told, when the pair were arraigned, that members of the association had received threats that their milk would be soured unless they returned to their old dealers. The two drivers, Max Weissman and Samuel Bergman, were held in $300 bail each.

It was alleged that, to sour the milk, Weissman dropped into the bottles tablets containing a chemical, Bergman meantime keeping watch.

BRYAN OUT FOR SUFFRAGE.

New York, Oct. 10.—William J. Bryan and Mrs. Bryan will deliver several addresses in New York state in behalf of the woman's suffrage amendment. It was announced here today. After three addresses in this city on October 16, Mr. Bryan will speak at Utica on October 17, at a meeting which will also be addressed by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt. He has been requested to speak at Buffalo on October 18.

Mrs. Bryan will tour the southern part of the state, but an address at a mass meeting in Binghamton is the only one definitely decided on.

JITNEY MAN IN BOMB CASE.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 10.—Israel Weinberg, a jitney driver, was brought to trial today for murder, growing out of a bomb explosion here in July, 1916, which claimed 10 victims. Selection of a jury is expected to require about a week. The prosecution alleges that Weinberg drove a jitney bus containing Thomas Mooney, Warren K. Billings, and Mrs. Mooney to the scene of the explosion where Billings and Mooney deposited the internal machine on the sidewalk.

SIX WHALES A FORTUNE

Killings Made in Short Sea Trip Worth $15,000.

Six sperm whales in two days' hunting, a killing valued at $15,000, was the luck which the hunters of the Bay City station in Lower Gray's Harbor, Wash., had recently.

The sperm whale, highly prized for the supply of high grade oil which it produces, is the most valuable of the five species of whale taken off this coast.

Now that oils are high in price an average sperm is worth about $2,500. In a normal catch of 300 whales per season at Gray's Harbor plant only from six to ten are sperm. A catch of six sperm in two days breaks all records.

Rate Are Expensive. Fifty rats on a farm will cost the owner $130 to $300 a year.

Actual Service Gives Leadership To Firestone SUPER CORD TIRES

THE leadership of the Firestone Super Cord has been won solely on construction producing unequalled strength, durability and flexible action. The body is built of walls of stout cord. Each cord imbedded in pure gum, no two cords ever touching to cause friction. The cushion (which is under tread to absorb shocks) is a thick layer of pure gum. The tread is tough and thick. The beads which hold the tire to the rim are specially reinforced. The side wall is also reinforced, giving extra strength against rim-cut, and raising bending point safely high. Users of Firestone Cord Tires are getting the highest average mileage enjoyed by car owners.

DAYS OF REGISTRATION.

Oneonta Voters Must Register Friday or Saturday of This or Next Week

The attention of the voters of the city of Oneonta is called to the fact that if they expect to vote at the forthcoming November election they must register on Friday or Saturday of this week, or on Friday or Saturday of next week. Personal registration in the city is necessary, and any voter residing within the city limits who does not appear in person at the polling place in his district on one of these days named and duly enroll his name, loses his right to vote. For the purpose of registration the polling places will be open on each day of the four days between the hours of 7 a. m. and 10 p. m. The places of registration are as follows:

First Ward.
First District—Municipal building, Main street.

The days in these country districts are Saturday of this and next week. In Oneonta, however, there are four days, and whoever votes must appear in person and register.

Remember that the first day of registration is tomorrow—Friday, October 12.

Policewomen in Britain.
War has drawn women into police service in England. In eight or nine cities policewomen have been installed as part of the regular force. The policewoman is in large demand in the munition factories, where, owing to the presence of many women, she performs many functions such as detective, chaplain, welfare worker and watchman, but in the main in these plants her work is of a preventive and protective nature, serving the young people of her own sex.

Appeal to Golfers.
An unusual way of asking golfers for their co-operation in keeping their course in good condition and in refraining from undesirable practices is employed by a Cincinnati golf club, which has placed a large sign beneath the bulletin board on the first tee of the course. It reads: "Treat the course as though you loved it." Every player is sure to see the request before starting over the links. A similar sign has been put up at the tenth hole.

HELPING TO WIN THE WAR

George Ade in Second Article Gives Advice to Americans Between the Ages of 6 and 10.

Assuming that this letter is now being read by some boy or girl old enough to go to school but still young enough to be called a "kid" (by those who don't know any better) let us begin by asking the question, "Is it wrong to fight?"

Every boy or girl with civilized parents can answer that question.

It is not to be answered by "yes," or "no."

If we say "yes," we admit at once that our old friends, George Washington and U. S. Grant, were depraved characters, because they fought and then kept on fighting.

If Buffalo Bill once upon a time rode out across the plains and came upon a band of Indians attacking a settler's cabin and went dashing up with his scouts and killed a few Redskins, is there any boy in the world who would go back on Buffalo Bill and pick out some quiet, elderly real estate dealer as a substitute hero?

It's too foolish to talk about.

Suppose we say it is not wrong to fight. Then we remove all blame from the Indians that Buffalo Bill killed and we find ourselves so mixed up that probably we had better back up and take a new start.

In answer to the question, "Is it wrong to fight," there can be but one sensible reply, as follows: "It all depends."

Suppose a boy of 14 is walking along the street with his sister and the neighborhood bully swaggers around the corner and pushes the boy up against a fence and cuffs him alongside the head and then tries some insulting familiarities on the sister, and suppose the boy who is thus humiliated and whose sister is in tears, suddenly remembers that he has been told to "keep out of fights!"

What shall he do?

Retreat to an alley, or stand up in defense of his own self-respect and try to protect his sister?

Suppose he says to the bully, "I believe in peace and no matter what you do to me, I won't strike back."

Then he would get a few more cuffs for good measure, and his sister would be ashamed of him and he would be ashamed of himself and the little rowdy who attacked him would call himself cock of the walk and be a greater nuisance than ever before.

The United States of America is involved in hideous war because President Wilson and Congress and all persons who are warmed by red blood instead of being chilled by sarsaparilla pop had to make the same decision that every boy is called upon to make when he is jumped upon by a tough customer.

Another question (boys only): Did you ever let a boy up before he yelled "Enough" and then have the whole fight over again?

If so, you might go around in your neighborhood and give some valuable information to people older than yourself.

If you (this is for both boys and girls) went out into the woods for a picnic with another "bunch" of young people you knew and liked, and if your crowd had a basket of things to eat and the other crowd had a basket and some toughies came along and stole the basket belonging to the other crowd, would you give them something to eat out of your basket, or let them sit over by themselves, hungry and miserable, and watch you stuff yourselves?

You'd play fair, of course, even if you had to go a little hungry.

Mr. Hoover is now asking every boy and girl in America to play fair and divide up with the hungry youngsters of France and Belgium and Great Britain.

There isn't enough food in the world to go around if we are selfish and claim more than our share.

How can a boy or girl under high-school age really help to win the war? First join the Junior Red Cross.

Then keep on saying, "I know Uncle Sam is right and I will pull for him until he wins."

Believe what you say.

Root for the U. S. A. as you would root for your baseball nine or your basketball five.

Stand out on the edge of the sidewalk and cheer the soldiers as they swing by.

If you get a chance to hold yarn for a Red Cross knitter, do your "bit," and say to yourself, when your arms begin to get tired: "I am helping on a pair of socks, and these socks will keep a soldier warm and prevent him from being ill or discouraged."

When the time comes for him to fight he will be in better condition and more willing to fight because he had these warm socks to wear. He will climb over the top of a trench and help to chase the Germans back to where they belong. There will be a great victory, and I will share in it because I held the yarn that kept the socks that warmed the feet that carried the man that chased the German that obeyed a Kaiser that has to be licked before the world can go back to housekeeping.

Probably the children to whom we are now talking are better posted regarding United States history than are some of the people who talk about it.

The children have got the Declaration of Independence and the Emancipation Proclamation freshly in mind and know what they were about and why.

They know that this country is dead set against slavery, either of the old-fashioned kind of chains and shackles, or the modern sugar-coated German variety.

They know that our boys now in the training camps or on their way to France are getting ready to fight against the oppressions of a cruel despot, just as some other American boys once fought at Bunker Hill.

By the way, if you can find a man or woman who does not understand how the rights of a democracy are to be preserved when kings go on the

WHEN HEADACHY TAKE CASCARETS FOR THE BOWELS

To-night! Clean your bowels and end headaches, colds, sour stomach.

Get a 10-cent box now.

You're bilious! You have a throbbing sensation in your head, a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow, with dark rings under your eyes; your lips are parched. No wonder you feel ugly, mean and ill-tempered. Your system is full of bile not properly passed off, and what you need is a cleaning up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels are cured by morning with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your liver and bowels clean; stomach sweet, and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets, because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

Paid $24,500 for a Set of Spoons.

Apostle spoons, of which many examples are changing hands in the auction rooms just now, were made in sets of 12 together, with a master spoon, says the London Chronicle. In the case of those belonging to Corpus Christi college, Cambridge, this thirteenth spoon is surmounted with the figure of St. Paul. Complete and original sets can be counted on the fingers of one hand, and for the earliest of them—dating from Henry VIII's reign—Pierpont Morgan had to pay $4,900. A single Charles I example, which sold in London for £34, was found in the thatched roof of a Devonshire barn.

For Diphtheria.

A recent issue of the Indianapolis Medical Journal contains an article suggesting the use of fresh buttermilk as a gargle for diphtheria. Another method is to use a swab with buttermilk, perhaps for the reason that some persons cannot gargle. A practitioner gives his experience in nine cases where the plain buttermilk was used five or six times a day. He believes that the diphtheria organisms were displaced entirely after three days.

Captured a Fine Buck.

Elbridge Kelly of Arkville and William Brown of Margaretville motored into the city yesterday afternoon with a fine four-pronged buck, which the former had shot in the Adirondacks, fastened to the running board of their car. They stopped at Winnie's lunch room for a short halt and then continued on their way home. The buck was admired by many during the short stay.

Franklin Given Sear.

Franklin, Oct. 10.—Residents of this village were given a scare shortly before noon today, when an alarm of fire was sounded. The firemen quickly responded, but found that it was sent because a chimney was burning out in the house owned by George Pomeroy, but occupied by Mr. Crosby. No damage resulted.

Here's a Real Hair Grower That Shows Results In Few Days

If your hair is thinning out, prematurely gray, brittle, falling out, it's a sure sign of the dangerous dandruff germ and quick action must be taken to save what hair you have and start a new growth. Don't wait until the hair root is dead, for then nothing can help you, but get from your druggist four ounces of Parisian Sage—It don't cost much and there's nothing you could use that's any better. Dr. Sangerhand, the famous Paris specialist, discovered that dandruff and falling hair are caused by a microbe—then came the discovery of the value of the genuine Parisian Sage (liquid form) to destroy this germ and prevent further loss of hair and the formation of dandruff. You will surely be delighted with the first application, for your hair will be bright-looking, all itching ceases and your scalp feels cool and comfortable. A few messages with Parisian Sage are all that are usually needed to start the germs that cause dandruff to form, and very soon you should see no more of the new hairs coming in. Parisian Sage is a favorite with discriminating women because it is delicate in perfume, does not stain or streak the hair and makes it lustrous, soft and fluffy. Be sure you get Parisian Sage (Giron's) for this brand is guaranteed.

CONSERVING THE FOOD SUPPLY.

There has been a great deal said about the conservation of the food supply in the United States, and there are unfortunately many who have looked with more or less of derision upon the proposition, believing, apparently, that there is no cause for interference by the government, that we can go along just as usual, eating and wasting as we please so long as we have the price. A wiser sort understands that the price has little to do with it. It is the waste which counts and that whoever in these times of world-plinch wastes anything is in a very evident fashion recreant to his country and to the cause of humanity. "He who wastes ever so little is a traitor" is the comment of the New York Medical Journal in a recent illuminating editorial, which is worth reprinting in part at least. "It has become proverbial," says the Journal, "that an American family wastes enough for a French family to live upon. Whether this is true or not, the French undoubtedly have not needed the lessons of the war to teach them frugality. It has been otherwise, however, with the English. The English workman does not take kindly to interference with his private life, and hence their economies have been rather ungraciously accepted. Among them are the bread order, and tea order, and the price of milk order, and many others. That these restrictions are real and not nominal is clearly evident in a recent case where an English householder was prosecuted because scraps of bread were found in the dustbin.

"To the typical American, extravagant and taking little heed of domestic details, this will seem a case of economy carried to the point of absurdity. To the before the war Briton it would have seemed an unwarranted meddling with his private affairs. Looking at it in a more reasonable light, however, we can find no fault in it. A nation at war to defend its very existence, must be united in every respect. Nowadays great wars are apt to be decided in less spectacular ways than in the thunder of artillery and the charge of cavalry.

"The nation which can so husband its own resources that its people have enough to eat and at the same time harass the enemy's source of supply so that his people feel the pinch of want, stands a good chance of winning on that ground alone, for a people who feel privation are apt to bring pressure to bear upon their rulers to end a war which is causing their misery, even if it cannot be ended gloriously.

"Each citizen, then, who is making the most of his food supply, living on as little as possible and wasting nothing, is doing his part to win the war. The citizen who wastes the food supply ever so little is a traitor. It makes no difference that he himself can afford to do it. Each such instance of waste detracts so much from the country's resources. Multiply one case by a hundred, a thousand, or a million and you have a real awakening of the nation.

"It would be as if a prizefighter tried to go on in a ring with a little venal bleeding away somewhere in his body exhausting his vitality. Looked at in that way a prosecution for wasting bread does not seem an absurdity; it sets a good example, an example which if followed throughout the land will go far toward winning the war."

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

Serious for Spain.
The Allied Governments are taking notice of the escape of the interned German submarine from Cadiz. Its future depredations on Allied shipping will be difficult either to establish or to measure for an assessment of damages, but that only makes the case the more serious for Spain.—[New York World.]

Open Season for Peace Talk.
It has been remarked that autumn seems to be the open season for peace talk. The recollection of an indecisive spring offensive and the prospect of winter, which is necessarily unproductive in military strategy, conspire in behalf of pacifist propaganda. And it is not only the pacifists who talk peace; many others speculate on a settlement "before Christmas." The Kaiser probably prays for it every night before he goes to bed.—[Chicago Tribune.]

LaFollette's Comparison.
The question of whether a citizen has a right to embarrass his country and give aid and comfort to the enemy is not debatable in time of war. Many rights are in abeyance to the greater need of national safety. So when Senator LaFollette, in his defense before the senate, compares himself to Lord Chatham, whom Americans applaud, he brings up in every mind but his own and those who believe as he does, the difference between his case and the British statesman's.

Chatham protested with dignity and eloquence against a brutal war of tyranny against a new nation struggling for its freedom. LaFollette is doing all he can by voice and vote to aid the most cruel, deceitful and oppressive power on earth to bring his own country under its heel.—[Waterbury American.]

The Soldier to the Civilian.
The troops stationed on Governor's Island have subscribed $200,000 for Liberty bonds. The 27th Division soldiers in camp at Spartanburg, S. C., have started a Liberty Loan campaign of "a million or bust" along with their strenuous course of training for the European trenches. All other divisions of the army of the United States are interesting themselves in the loan.

"They fight and they help pay as well. Is there a single employed individual in the safety and comfort and well-being of the life at home, which those men have all sacrificed, who cannot help pay without being asked to fight or to sacrifice more than the passing and needless indulgences of peace and plenty?"—[New York World.]

South American Opinion.
Opinion in South America appears to be pretty well crystallized in its opposition to Germany. None of the governments there seem to wish to have anything to do with the Kaiser or his representatives. Argentina, Chile, Venezuela, and Colombia are the only countries whose positions have not been clearly defined. The influence of this situation on the war will be more in preventing exports of food stuffs than in the assistance through men or money. They could all help some in the latter way by standing together in opposition to the Prussians and refusing them any aid, direct or indirect. They are a valuable asset on the right side.—[Utica Press.]

Make a Highway Fool-Proof.
Every snake twist in a highway much used by motorists, especially when the view is obstructed by trees, means that sooner or later there will be an accident there.

And it is probably little exaggeration to say that there is not a grade crossing anywhere in the state where someone has not either been killed or someone will be killed eventually. All that death has to do is to wait.

Nine-tenths of these fatal accidents are, of course avoidable. But it is idle to expect that the day will ever come when all men who drive automobiles will be either skilled or careful.

The only way to make sure of saving life is to make the highways as nearly fool-proof as possible.—[Binghamton Republican.]

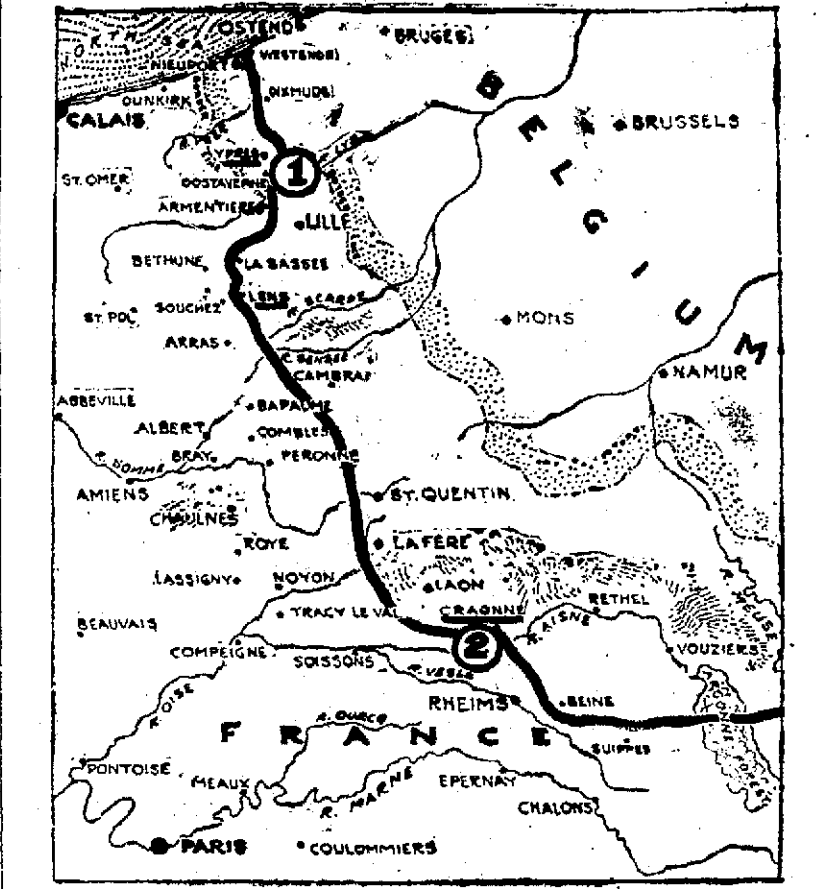

The Immortal Goddess.
Liberty has scoured the plains on horseback; has flown with the eagle; has worn her Phrygian cap at the prow of gallant ships; has dwelt on mountaintops. Now she plods through the mud on a liberty motor-truck. But she is the same immortal goddess, old and ever young.—[New York World.]

TRAINS NEED WIRELESS.
Fine for Use in Case of Wrecks and Holdups.
A number of American railroads have experimented with wireless installations on moving trains and exceptional results have been obtained in many instances, the messages having been transmitted over distances of 75 to 100 miles from the train while in motion. These considerations have led a New York genius, George Wall, to suggest that all trains traversing barren parts of the country such as the prairies of the west and southwest be provided with wireless apparatus, particularly for use in summoning police aid in the event of being held up by train robbers.

Albeit, this is not such a far-fetched idea at that, as we read quite often of a train being held up, even in this latter age of enlightenment and civilization. As the unsettled regions of the country are becoming rapidly populated, at least to a fair extent, and as mounted police are to be found at relatively short distances in practically every part of the United States, the suggestion seems very logical, and undoubtedly when the present war situation has passed away the leading railroads will foresee the distinct advantages and facilities provided by installing radio-telegraphic sets on all trains passing through unsettled parts of the country.

Not only will the radio prove exceptionally valuable in many such instances as that here illustrated, but it has already proved of extreme efficacy in the handling of trains. It may in this way often be the means of averting a serious train wreck, especially when severe storms have caused bad washouts along the line and dismantled the telegraphic and telephone wires. One eastern railroad, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, has tried out a wireless train installation with excellent satisfaction, and found it of great practical use in the dispatching of trains during the winter months, when severe storms had demolished part of the communication wires.—[Electrical Experimenter.]

Germans Strike Twice in West

Apparently in an effort to hold up another British drive in Flanders, the Germans launched two heavy infantry attacks, one (1) against Haig's position east of Ypres, and the other is against the French lines in the Aisne and in Champagne. Both attacks broke down under the fire of British and French guns. Both Paris and Berlin report extremely heavy artillery fire on the Champagne front.

NO SHORTAGE OF ANTHRACITE

Tonnage Greater This Year Than Ever Before in History of Production.
Reports just compiled for the Railroads' War board indicate that unless something unforeseen occurs the amount of anthracite coal transported by railroads this year will exceed the tonnage of any previous year by a considerable amount, according to the reports which show the operation of the nine anthracite railroads. The aggregate anthracite tonnage transported by these roads during the eight month period, ending August 31 this year, was 7,668,389 tons more than in the same period last year, an increase of 17.18 per cent. To produce this increase the anthracite roads carried a gross tonnage of 52,291,445 tons from the mines in the past eight months, as against 44,623,063 tons for the first eight months of 1916.

The increase for the month of August alone this year over August, 1916, was 1,583,609 tons, or 18.35 per cent. The July increase was 24.38 per cent and the June increase 25.24 per cent. The per cent of increase for the Delaware and Hudson is practically the same as that for the other roads.

These figures indicate that recent reports to the effect that there has been a severe curtailment in the production and distribution of coal are incorrect. The "anthracite roads" include the Delaware and Hudson company, Philadelphia and Reading railway, Lehigh Valley railroad, Central Railroad of New Jersey, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad, Pennsylvania railroad, Erie railroad, New York, Ontario and Western railway and Lehigh and New England railroad.

A TIMELY PROPOSITION.
Immediate Steps Should Be Taken Regarding Housing in Oneonta.
Editor Star—Your article in reference to the housing proposition, published in your paper today, is indeed timely. What the Riverside Manufacturing company "through its officers" the Chamber of Commerce is admitted by almost every citizen of this city. It is a serious condition, because the city is growing, wants to grow and yet is held back because of inadequate housing facilities. Oneonta's growth is not spasmodic, due to war orders or munitions plants, but it is a growth gradual and substantial. It would seem therefore, that the Riverside Manufacturing company in writing the Chamber of Commerce has presented this vital subject to the proper organization which should immediately devise or arrange some feasible plan whereby the community can take on its normal growth and a development made up of people willing and anxious to become a part and parcel of us.

To be sure this committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce has a big task. But other communities have faced and met the same problems. Lockport, Elmira and Poughkeepsie are cities which are dealing with their housing propositions in a manner that commends their actions to the serious minded people of Oneonta.

I hope, Mr. Editor, to learn that plans for a definite and permanent growth will be outlined forthwith and some action started.

Your Share.

The boys who enlisted are giving their blood
In battle for mine and me;
The women and babies are giving their food
In countries across the sea;
They suffer privations undreamed in our land
For the same ideals we hold.
They make sacrifices we can't understand
Where in plenty are bread and gold;
The mothers, the children, the old, the unit,
Are giving their all over there—
By George! I don't want to do merely my bit
But do my full share—my share!

It's little enough I can do over here
For the boys who are fighting for me.
But I'll give "dill it hurts" and I'll give with good cheer—
When it pinches the prouder I'll be.
Why, the shirt from my back I would joyfully tear
Just to feel less accused, less ashamed
Every time my thoughts turn to our boys over there
And the women and children and maimed;
Just to feel I was doing my utmost with grit.
Just to feel I was playing things square,
Just to know I was not merely doing my bit
But—thank God!—I was doing my share!

VOTE FOR $2,500 AMBULANCE.

Delegates of Labor Bodies Decide to Push Project to Give City Motor Vehicle; Mayor Promises His and Aldermen's Aid; Desire Contributions From People of City.

By a large representation of the city's labor organizations who met at the Municipal building last night, it was voted to go on with the proposition, as outlined at a previous meeting, to provide the city with a motor ambulance. It is now planned that this vehicle shall be a $2,500 truck that shall be a credit alike to the city and to the organizations fostering the movement. Subscription papers will be circulated among the labor bodies immediately with the hope that the ambulance will be in service by January 1.

As so many speakers, after Chairman John L. Young called the meeting to order, pledged the support of their organizations, financially and otherwise, to the project, a purchasing committee and a soliciting committee, consisting of five members each, were appointed. The names of the committeemen will be made public at a later date.

Mayor Ceperley, who was at the meeting, after expressing his appreciation on behalf of the city for the interest taken in such a cause, promised his support and that of the aldermen to advance the movement in any way desired. President Francis and C. H. Dorr of the Francis Motor Sales Co., presented a proposition of a fully equipped truck to the assembly.

It was stated last night that there doubtless are some of the people in Oneonta who would be willing to contribute to such a worthy project, but who have concluded that only the labor organizations are to undertake the work. For them, it has been arranged that Charles Smith, president of the Citizen's National bank, and treasurer of the ambulance fund, will accept any denominations. Contributions may be given him at the bank or left there for him.

To correct an impression that the labor organizations would have to pay for the upkeep of the ambulance, the following resolution adopted at the previous meeting, is printed:

Whereas, the city of Oneonta is at the present time without adequate ambulance service, and

Whereas, certain brotherhoods of the city have offered to purchase a suitable ambulance on the condition that the city maintain the same, furnish a capable driver, house the said ambulance, make all emergency calls free of charge and place the ambulance under the joint control of a committee appointed from the Common Council, and a committee of equal number selected from the brotherhoods, purchasing the ambulance, now therefore,

Be it Resolved, That in consideration of the purchase of said ambulance by the said brotherhood, the Common Council annually appropriate a sufficient sum of money to maintain said ambulance, to provide quarters for said ambulance in the Municipal building and to provide a capable driver therefor, so that all emergency calls in the city of Oneonta shall be made free of charge, so long as the city of Oneonta retains the joint control of said ambulance with said brotherhoods, as hereinbefore set forth.

Liberty Loan Speakers.

HERE'S YOUR OPPORTUNITY.

Peaches Will Be Cheap Today and Preserves May Be Needed.

The United States food administrator is constantly urging housewives to use less sugar for every purpose save only that of preserves and jams, intimating that it may become necessary to use these in place of butter the coming winter. He advises against frosting cakes and to use less in drinks and in candy. Its use for preserves is urged as wise and prudent.

Owing to an overshipment from the peach orchards to us, we have placed a large quantity of choice fruit in the hands of the retailers for today and at prices which will permit them to sell at less than the prevailing prices. This is the housewives' opportunity and we advise all to secure a supply today. J. O. & G. N. Rowe. adv 1t

FOR FOOD CONSERVATION.

Merchants of Oneonta Asked to Present Educational Displays.

Messrs. F. H. Breese, R. W. Murdoch and E. C. Lauren, a committee appointed by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce to act in conjunction with recommendations furnished by the State Food conference recently held in New York, met Wednesday morning and adopted the following resolutions:

In further support of the United States food administration this committee assembled on this tenth day of October, recommends to the retail merchants of the city, that each merchant contribute a certain part of his window space to the publicity campaign, for a period of one month, to be utilized in arranging a series of displays and thereby visualize, for the benefit of the public, the necessity for conservation.

Whereas, The United States Food administration is endeavoring to arouse the consuming public to a thorough realization of the urgent necessity for the conservation of the supply of perishable foodstuffs, in order that they may be shipped for the maintenance of our armies and those of our comrades in arms; be it therefore,

Resolved, That this committee pledge itself to actively co-operate with the United States food administration and record its endorsement of the aforesaid food administration; and be it further

Resolved, That each merchant in the city of Oneonta be requested to embody in his newspaper advertisements for a period of one month, such statements relative to the matter of food conservation as may tend to better inform the consuming public with the serious problem we are confronting.

NIGHT SCHOOL COMMENCES.

Doors Thrown Open for Winter of Hard Work and Study to 103.

When the gong sounded at 7:30 last night in the Academy street school building, the Oneonta Evening school threw open its doors for the winter's work with 103 pupils, young and old, ready for work and study that shall help them in their daily lives. In a very few minutes after that, teachers in nine classes were explaining the term's work and giving advice. Then the grind began as students were introduced to the rudiments of subjects new to them, or commenced to brush up on things they had not done since their school days, and many of which had been forgotten.

The classes in shorthand, typewriting, and bookkeeping, as had been expected, were the largest, while the other classes were of various sizes, one, the English for foreigners, having but two pupils. A few courses, unless the registration increases in the next few sessions, will be dropped.

Placed on Enrollment List.

The enrollment board for the second Otsego district has, under instructions from the board at Albany, placed the names of Thomas Henry Delaney and Hazel LeRoy Reynolds upon the local list. Both were members of Company G at the time the enrollment was ordered and hence were exempt from the drawing. Later both were honorably discharged from the company and under the provisions of the law became automatically subject to the draft. Delaney was given the number 1880 and Reynolds 1881 on the original enrollment. On the draft list Reynolds has been given the number 438-A, and Delaney 1810-A.

Machinery for Quality Silk Mill.

A large amount of machinery for the Quality Silk Glove factory, which will be located in the Roman Brothers' annex on Windsor avenue, has already arrived and workmen are busy in erecting the machines and installing them. Carpenters are also placing partitions for work and rest rooms and offices and it is the hope of the management to have the plant in operation at an early date. Manager Walther is now in New York, but expects to return today or tomorrow.

Little Fellows Did It.

Nothing better indicates what the plain people can do, than the fact that they have combined small monthly amounts of $1 or more, at six per cent compound interest and have thus accumulated some $3,000,000, which has been kept and used in Oneonta to benefit the carpenter, painter, plumber and laboring people in general and also to get homes. It has been a great educator and has been made possible through the safe six per cent compound interest system of the Oneonta Building and Loan association, which is protected by state laws same as savings banks. adv 1t

GIRL SCOUTS RESPOND.

Do Their bit for Tobacco Fund for Boys in France.

One of the most cheering responses to the appeal for contributions for Our Boys in France Tobacco fund, which The Star is making, came through the girls yesterday, when a check for $2 came with this note of explanation:

"The enclosed check is for the Girl Scouts of Oneonta fund. The Girl Scouts of Oneonta earned it with a candy sale." The note is signed by Miss Helen Ulrich of 17 Franklin street, the captain.

The Girl Scouts have the thanks of The Star and we hope ere long they will receive cards from the front acknowledging that it has cheered men in the trenches. It is an example worthy of emulation.

A MILITARY WEDDING.

Miss Mildred Wilder Becomes Bride of Lieutenant Ray Douglas Champlin.

One of the most impressive and delightful of October weddings in Oneonta was solemnized Wednesday morning, at 11 o'clock, when Miss Mildred Wilder became the bride of First Lieutenant Ray Douglas Champlin of the Medical Reserve corps of the National army. The ceremony was performed by Rev. B. M. Johns, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Oneonta, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln E. Wilder, at 55 Elm street. The double ring service was used, and the bride was given away by her father. Her sister, Miss Marion Wilder, was ring bearer. The bride was dressed in white embroidered net over messaline and carried a bouquet of white bride's roses. The groom was in full uniform of the Medical Reserve corps.

The house was appropriately and tastefully decorated for the occasion with flags of the United States and of the allied countries, and the ceremony was performed in the library beneath a large American flag, banked on either side with palms and white chrysanthemums. Flags and white roses and chrysanthemums were used throughout the house in decorations. About 30 relatives and intimate personal friends of bride and groom were present.

Following the ceremony and congratulations, a delicious wedding breakfast was served, and a little later Lieutenant and Mrs. Champlin departed by auto on a brief wedding journey through the Catskills and Berkshires, returning from which they will be at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Champlin, in Hobart, while awaiting orders for the groom to join his detachment, which will probably be stationed at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

The wedding presents, besides numerous and valuable gifts of silver, china, cut glass, money and checks, included a Liberty bond for $1,000, the gift of the bride's father.

The bride, who is one of Oneonta's most popular and estimable young ladies, is a graduate of Beechwood college at Jenkintown, Pa., class of 1916, and for the following year was an instructor in that institution. During the present year she has been a teacher in the State Training School for Girls at Hudson. The groom is a graduate of the University of Maryland, College of Physicians and Surgeons, class of 1917. Since graduation he has been connected with St. Joseph's hospital at Reading, Pa., enlisted in early summer in the Medical Reserve corps and has recently received notice of his appointment as lieutenant. He is a resident of Hobart, and a young physician of proved ability. Both have many friends whose best wishes will be extended for a long and happy married life.

Among the guests present at the wedding were the following from out of the city: Mrs. M. E. Wilder and Mrs. A. R. Bingham of Fairport, grandmother and aunt of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Champlin and Miss Gertrude Champlin of Hobart and Mrs. Nancy Champlin of Davenport, parents, sister and grandmother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dean of Elmira and Miss Mary Newell of Cooperstown. The bride's sister, Miss Frances Wilder, who is a student at Pratt institute, New York city, was also present.

RECEPTION TO PASTOR BURD.

Largely Attended and Enjoyable Gathering Greets West End Clergyman.

Last evening at the West End Baptist church an enjoyable reception was given Rev. and Mrs. Norman S. Burd, the new pastor of the church, who came here recently from New Berlin, and whose work opens very encouragingly. Mr. and Mrs. Burd were assisted in receiving the guests by their son and daughter, by Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bartholomew and Mrs. A. P. Horton, and the guests found the new pastor and wife very congenial people and the event was keenly enjoyed. Many friends from other congregations united in welcoming, including several of the city pastors.

During the evening a pleasing program was rendered which proved very entertaining. It included a piano duet by Mrs. James Barnes and Mrs. Robert Lake; a selection by a male quartet composed of Mr. Davy, Mr. Lake, Rev. Mr. Burd and Mr. Miller; a recitation admirably given, by Miss Couse; remarks of greeting by Rev. Dr. Pendleton of the Free Baptist church; a duet, by Mr. and Mrs. Rogers; words of welcome to the new pastor from the city, by Dr. E. J. Farley of the First Baptist church; a solo, by Mr. Davy; a recitation by Miss Anna Reynolds; a second selection by the male quartet; closing with some happy remarks, full of optimism from Pastor Burd.

Much credit is due the committee, of which E. C. Wilson was chairman, for the success of the evening. Mr. Burd has created a very favorable impression and the evening gave a further impetus to his pastorate.

GERMAN POWER IS PASSING FAST

Comparison of Situation Now and a Year Ago.

ALLIES IN FAR BETTER CASE

Time is Working for the Allies—Germany's Military Strength is Waning Out, While Her Internal Troubles Are Daily Becoming More Aggravated—U. S. Counted On.

If one compares the war map of 1915-1916 with the war map of 1917, the advantages in favor of the allies on the main front, i. e., the western front, stand out in clear relief; but the attention must not be allowed to remain fixed on a number of square kilometers—be the number large or small—which have already been gained or which still remain to be taken. Very often the taking of the smallest portion of ground has more significance than a victory gained over a large area; the enemy expends more than he reckoned on, more than he should. There has been attrition.

It is this which we are now going to prove, says the New York Sun, by comparing the German military situation in 1916 to that of this year.

Situation in 1916.

The allies are reduced, one after the other, to the defensive.

The French had resisted admirably at Verdun, where German military power certainly attained its climax; shortly afterward the French had enough energy to undertake, in company with the English, the battle of the Somme on July 1, which was not decisive.

The Italians, having seen their front pierced for 60 kilometers between the Lake of Garda and the height of Asta, recovered themselves, but were then stopped after the fall of Gorizia.

The Russians were checked after their splendid offensive in June between the Proper marshes and the Roumanian frontier.

The Oriental army had not been able to advance beyond Monastir.

Lastly, Roumania was invaded. However, after the taking of Bucharest on December 12 Germany took the initiative in making overtures of peace. She appeared to be fatigued.

The weight of the war had certainly fallen more and more on her shoulders, especially after the tremendous weakening of the Austrian army, which at the time of the Russian and Italian offensives lost 800,000 men. We will only mention the weight of the Turkish and Bulgarian armies by way of remembrance.

From the point of view of numbers the repercussion of the sanguinary battle of the Somme made itself felt. Germany was really undergoing a continual wearing out process in order to face—with losses of unforeseen magnitude—the danger which threatened her everywhere on the enormous front of the unique battlefield, which stretched from the North sea to Riga and to the Balkans. She was obliged to make a prodigious effort since June, 1916, to form 38 new divisions (of which it is true only seven were complete, the remainder being formed by a levy on the units already existing), while from August, 1914, to June, 1916, she had only formed 50 divisions.

These formations were only created by utilizing to the utmost limit all the reserves, by the calling up of those recovered from their wounds and the young classes, and by diminishing the number of battalions in the regiments and the number of regiments in the divisions. The method of supplementing the lack of soldiers by murderous war materials of the highest order did not solve the problem, as the construction of this material requires strong, healthy arms; to this end, then, and to meet other industrial or agricultural necessities Germany did not hesitate to trample once more under foot the international conventions and proceeded to the exploitation of prisoners of war.

In a word, at the end of 1916 the powerful German military machine was already broken and shaken to its fundamentals.

Situation in 1917.

Peace overtures not having come to a successful issue, it seems that Germany decided on a war plan, the three principal points of which we must remember:

Development of submarine warfare.

Creation of 23 new divisions, 13 of which were to be ready by March 15.

Organization behind the lines of the fortified position known as the Hindenburg line, which was considered impregnable.

We will not here attempt to determine to what point of efficiency the first part of the plan has been brought; it does not, however, appear that Germany can ever obtain decisive results by her submarine warfare, which on the contrary involves her in heavy expenditure of men and materials.

The second part has plainly failed; 13 divisions only have been formed up to the present. They appear to be but of mediocre value, old men and quite young boys making up the numbers. It is true, however, that they have not been regularly recruited, the men having, it seems, voluntarily enlisted.

The third part of the plan did doubtless at the beginning meet with full measure of success. The Hindenburg line, on which during many months thousands of soldiers and even prisoners worked persistently, as well as the men and women of the invaded district, was a masterpiece of fortification; certain strategic works will remain as models in the history of modern war.

Hindenburg Line Damaged.

The object of this line was to guarantee a necessary respite for the reorganization of the German army and for an effort on other fronts by opposing an impassable obstacle to the imminent offensive of the French and English. The famous "spontaneous falling back" of the German forces on this line proves to what a point of exhaustion they had come.

The Anglo-French forces did not follow this dilatory method; in April they took up a vigorous offensive and damaged the Hindenburg line in several places.

This battle of the Aisne and of Champagne (April 16 to May 16, 1917), which will go down to posterity as one of the most sanguinary battles of the war, not only assured to the allies the conquest of the positions—the importance of which was indisputably revealed by the fury of the battles and counter-attacks—but it had a considerable effect on the military situation and the German military strength.

On the Verdun front from February, 1916, to February, 1917, Germany had engaged 86 divisions and a half, 14 of which went to the front twice and six three times.

From April 9 to May 11, 1917, i. e., in one month only, 84 divisions were massed by the Germans on the Aisne and Champagne front. Seven of these divisions were said to have been brought up twice.

During that period the booty of the Anglo-French troops amounted to: 49,570 prisoners (970 officers), 441 guns of different caliber, 938 machine guns, 285 trench guns.

Of the 43 fresh divisions brought up by the Germans to the French front from the beginning of April, and which constituted the supreme strategic mass, that which was to render possible the famous "Hindenburg surprise," there remained only ten divisions intact in July. Four-fifths of the German reserves had been thrown into the furnace; the ambitious plans announced with great bluster in the German press during the winter of 1916-17 had all come to nothing. Italy invaded, Petrograd and Odessa taken, as well as Dnipro, Calais and Boulogne, the army of Salonica driven into the sea, etc.

The Recent Offensives.

And suddenly in August, 1917, came the new allied offensives; there was the successful battle of Flanders and the English surrounded Lens. The French, shattering forever the dream of Verdun, which cost the German empire so dear, thrust back the army of the crown prince in a few hours to its former lines. The Italians made a formidable advance toward Trieste, seizing more than 20,000 prisoners from the Austrian front. And on the Baltic front Riga still held.

The above efforts certainly had further effects on the German reserves. For instance, during the course of the German defeat of August 20 on the Meuse a reserve division was annihilated. Irony of fate! It was the Sixth division of Brandenburg, particularly popular and particularly held in high esteem by the Kaiser—the same division, or rather what remained of it, which reached Douaumont on February 25, 1916, which event was heralded with so much bluster in the whole German press.

One of the peculiarities of the above-mentioned German defeat was the proportion of officers captured; out of 6,700 men there were 201 officers. Now during the offensives of 1916 the allies only took 208 officers out of 11,000 men. We have here an undeniable proof of the diminishing value of the German army and of the waste in the officers' ranks.

Allies in Far Better Case.

To the data given above it is easy to make the following objection: If Germany has suffered losses which seriously compromise her reserves, is it not the same or even worse with the allies?

First of all, it is not worse. The allied front is not so vast, and it has been proved, moreover, that in their method of fighting the Germans use more men, either because their general staff professes a certain contempt for what it calls "human material" (let us not forget the hecatombs of the Yser, of Verdun and the Somme) or because they persist in the efficiency of attacks in massed formation. But then these tactics seem to be necessary, because the German soldier, taken individually, does not possess the qualities of "go" and initiative which distinguish the French, as their morale is not always good and also because the best units have depreciated little by little since they selected from their ranks the elite elements of the famous "shock troops" (stoss-truppen).

And meanwhile time is passing. Besides her interior problems, which are becoming daily more aggravated, Germany has to solve a real crisis in the

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get one ounce of Earsol (double strength), and add to it one-fourth pint of hot water and four ounces of granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should be open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

wearing out of her military strength. "Mitteleuropa" is not, whatever one may say of it, a fairly country which escapes the laws of natural equilibrium; a single glance at the map shows that her reservoir of men must mathematically—even with equal losses—be dried up more quickly than that of the allies, which is being continually refilled from all the corners of the globe. The Oriental fronts may momentarily bend, but in any event they consume thousands of men, and the moment will come when the famous "General Winter" will begin his terrible offensive from the Baltic to the Black sea.

United States Counted On.

And all this time, the United States, with invincible determination and methods, is preparing fresh armies whose military qualities, organization, training and equipment will before long be the admiration of the whole world.

Normal opinion cannot therefore but logically concur in the opinion recently expressed by Judge E. H. Carr, president of the United States Steel corporation, in the press: "In any event it is only a question of time before the allies must be successful."

Time is working for us. From 1914 to 1917 France has built up, from the Yser to the Marne, before Verdun, Nancy and Belfort, the wall in the shelter of which they have set to work. The important point is that the wall holds; it held its own before a formidable Germany when it was still but a weak protection; before a Germany growing weaker every day it is holding. It will hold until the moment when the concentration of the allied and American forces brings about the supreme offensive.

Little Things Count.

Life is made up, not of great sacrifices or duties, but of little things in which smiles and kindnesses and small obligations, given habitually, are what win and preserve the heart and secure comfort.—Sir Humphrey Davy.

"Buy It In Albany"

To prove that Albany is the first city in trade for The Capitol District its retail merchants have set aside a week, beginning October 15, during which it will be their pleasure to act as hosts to the great buying population of The Capitol District. They respectfully and cordially invite the most critical inspection of the new merchandise with which their stores are overflowing.

Special Display to Be Featured

Especially displays of style, the latest, most striking modes in every line, will be made. Every store will put on gala attire and offer such special attractions as best suit its particular character. Spacious show windows will present to shoppers the newest notes in fall and winter fashions in clothing for men and women. Original conceits in jewelry will abound. The work of the foremost designers of furniture will be presented. Music stores will present their finest instruments; the florists' displays will rival noted horticultural expositions.

Delivery will be made free of charge within a radius of 200 miles by all members of the Associated Retail Merchants. Every merchant, no matter what his line, will make it his business as well as pleasure to demonstrate, once and for all, that Albany appreciates high class patronage and repays it with superior quality, abundant quantity and reasonable prices.

Albany Merchants Honest

Not a man in Albany but stakes his business reputation and success on the wares he offers the public. Honesty and fair dealing are the animating instincts of Albany business.

If you do not know this from experience, give Albany a trial next week. You will be convinced and look forward pleasantly to your next shopping trip to The Capital City.

Buy It In Albany

No matter what it is, if it enters into the contemplation of a normal American life, you can find it—and best of it—in Albany. You can find it first and you can buy it most advantageously. This has been so since Albany was old Fort Orange. Three hundred years of business integrity have made it so. Hendrick Hudson recognized the trade possibilities in Albany, and the wise old navigator's foresight launched the little frontier trading post on its career as a trade center for a great district. Slowly it grew. Shipping concerns located here, later came the railroads and they made it a division terminal. All recognized it as the logical center of trade. Modern business has kept pace with Albany. Realizing that trade naturally gravitates to Albany, its business men have made of it a place to which home-makers instinctively turn to purchase.

Stores Have Latest and Best

Stores are up to date. They have modern business methods. Their sales forces are composed of intelligent, courteous, helpful men and women. They have the latest and best styles. No creation of the customer, of the milliner, of the jeweler, of the silversmith, or of the furniture designer appears in New York or other great cities but that Albany has it simultaneously. Keen buyers are on the ground in the great centers of origin of styles and modes and their instant appreciation of newness and worth places the finest products first in Albany. You can buy cheaper in Albany than elsewhere.

Aside from the question of increased cost in fare paid to New York and other great cities at some distance, the actual cost of buying first class merchandise of every kind in Albany is less than elsewhere. This is easily susceptible of proof. Careful purchasing in Albany stores will give greater value, greater quantity, more efficient service and greater satisfaction than anywhere else.

Shopping Day Is Enjoyable

Albany takes care of its shoppers. A day or two in Albany, aside from the satisfaction of doing business in high class shops, is a pleasurable experience. There is something to do, something to see. The city itself is modern and beautiful. There are miles of finely paved and shaded streets; beautiful homes; massive, impressive public buildings of state, county and city, some of them among the finest in America; refined amusements, including the leading attractions of the city, first class vaudeville and a score of moving picture theatres.

No city can boast of finer hotel accommodations. Thoroughly modern, spacious, inviting—the visitor to Albany can put up comfortably and yet suit his purse. There are dozens of good restaurants where delightful dinners and luncheons can be obtained at short notice.

Easy to Get to Albany

Finally Albany is easy of access. Half a dozen rail and trolley lines, steamboat lines and a web of wonderful motoring highways, covering the entire country from which Albany trade comes, center in The Capital City and pour their thousands into its welcoming heart every day.

Try Albany once and you will be bound to bring your trade where it is appreciated and where you will find you can do best in every line.

GOOD SCREENS CHEAPEST

Expert Says Copper Wire, Although More Costly, Will Outlast Iron Many Times.

That it does not pay to use cheap iron screens on any building more valuable than a chicken house, is the opinion of Dr. J. D. Walters, professor of architecture and drawing in the Kansas State Agricultural college. Persons erecting new dwellings should equip them with screens that will last many years, he says.

"An average two-story house contains upwards of two dozen openings that should be screened," said Doctor Walters. The best screens are made of a strong white pine sash and a copper wire screening. Another grade is made of fir lumber and a screen material made of a composition called white metal. The cheaper grades are made of yellow Southern pine and covered with common iron wire screening.

"The first screen named is rather expensive on account of the high price of copper, but it does not need to be painted, and should last 12 years. The iron wire screen, on the other hand, will rust out the first season and rarely lasts more than two or three years."

"A screen door should be made with a hardwood sash and should be provided with the best kind of spring hinges and a knob lock. There should be sufficient cross rails and cross braces in it to prevent sagging. The window screens are usually fastened at the top by cheap black varnished butts and are hooked at the bottom with a cheap hasp and staple."

WILL TRAIN CITY MANAGERS

Kansas State University Establishes Course Which is First of the Kind in This Country.

Kansas is preparing to establish in its state university a four-year course in city management, the first of its kind to be established in the country. When a man, or a woman either, is graduated from this course he will have had thorough training in every department of city affairs except politics, and will go out to help run cities as a trained man goes into a factory or business. Prof. F. W. Blackmar, who is head of the economics department and has been instructed to prepare the details of the course, had this to say concerning the need for such a school:

"No man can manage a business unless he has a thorough understanding of its nature. The man who manages a city ought to be as experienced as an engineer, or a teacher. Why cannot universities train men for managing cities as well as it can for other professions? That is what we propose to do. The course of study for training city managers should be about one-half the ordinary classroom and lecture work and the rest laboratory investigation into the actual needs of municipal operation."

Pretty Exterior Finish Effects.

Beveled siding, shingles and brick are used to finish the exterior of many houses now. The combination of these materials does not produce a patch finish, but they harmonize beautifully. The brick are used in the foundation walls from grade to the sills, and in the porch railing wall.

The sides of the house are finished with beveled siding up to the second floor, and with shingles the rest of the way to the roof. If the shingles are stained some fairly dark tint and the beveled siding is painted some light color or white, with the window sash dark, the effect produced is very pleasing.

Trade Development Profitable.

The competition of cities to secure trade for their manufacturers, wholesalers and jobbers is particularly keen. The development of package car service, the expediting of merchandise, the extension of trade territory through co-operative effort in shipments and the covering of districts, the quick adjustment of claims, the generating of enthusiasm for certain communities as trade centers—this work is vigorously and persistently carried on by chambers of commerce, with field secretaries, trade magazines and trade trips, and the money spent in this work returns a hundred fold in new accounts and increased orders.

Retail Interests Benefited.

Through chamber of commerce work the retail interests in a community are brought together to work together for improvement in local methods of merchandising, for investigation and elimination of "fly-by-night" concerns and fraudulent advertisers. Credit bureaus are often maintained, and truthful advertising is a thing insisted upon. Universal trading conditions locally are considered and worked out, not only for the protection of the retail stores, but for the protection of the customer.

Tarantula in His Sleeve.

A big tarantula, of the kind which has frequently fatally bitten human beings, darted down the coat sleeve of Arthur Sylvester, a grocer of Pottsville, Pa., the other day and was preparing to attack when attendants overcame the insect by throwing sulphur over it and capturing it alive. It is now on exhibition. The tarantula, which is about the size of fifty ordinary spiders, came here in a bunch of bananas.

HIS FATHER AT BUNKER HILL

Washington Man, Now 102 Years Old, Was Past Age Limit at Opening of the Civil War.

Austin Corbett Winslow, whose father fought in the battle of Bunker Hill, and himself being too old to enlist at the outbreak of the Civil war, is one hundred and two years old. Despite his remarkable age, he is still able to sit up and take an active interest in current events, says the Washington Post. He attributes his age to the fact that he has taken the best possible care of himself. He says he never smoked, but was a chewer of tobacco.

To look at Mr. Winslow, one would never suspect him as having passed the century mark. His complexion is ruddy, and his eye alert, but he has cultivated a flowing white beard. Another remarkable fact is that his handwriting is still legible.

Coming from a stock of hardy ancestors, he was born in Barnard, Vt., the son of Heseckiah and Mary Sampson Winslow. His father and several brothers were all past eighty when death called them. His mother, however, died in her sixties. When asked how many more years he expected to live, he replied: "The way I feel at the present time, I will live as long as Methuselah."

THE BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

The full resources and strength of the Boy Scouts of America have been pledged for an intensive campaign from October 20th to the 25th, in the sale of Liberty Loan Bonds. President Colin H. Livingstone, of the Boy Scouts of America, has given this pledge to the Treasury Department and to the Liberty Loan Committee in each city.

President Wilson, in addition to his letter urging the Boy Scouts "to take a definite part in this practical method of giving expression to your Scout obligation of service to our country," has just offered a flag to the troop in each State having the best record for service in the sale of bonds.

Responding to the earnest wish of President Wilson, the Boy Scouts of America have planned their campaign from October 20th to 25th inclusive. Under the slogan, "Every Scout To Save a Soldier," 338,000 Scouts and Scout officials will co-operate with the government "to show the firm resolution of our people in the present war" by securing subscriptions for the bonds of the second Liberty Loan.

On Saturday and Sunday, October 20 and 21, there will be public demonstrations, special publicity efforts and, whenever practicable, appropriate services in houses of worship.

From October 23 to 25 there will be a house-to-house solicitation by members of the Boy Scouts of America as messengers of the United States Government, with a special patriotic demonstration on the occasion of the nationwide celebration of Liberty Day, October 24th.

The latest reports show that Boy Scouts secured subscriptions for $23,338,250 from 139,645 different people in the first Liberty Loan campaign; 7,740 Scouts qualified for War Service Emblems by selling bonds in ten or more homes. Similar recognition will be given in this campaign.

Chief Scout Executive James E. West has notified the Scouts that they are carrying the message of democracy and that they are to consider themselves the special messengers to the President and to look the part and act the part. "Remember, as Col. Roosevelt has said, you are a member of Uncle Sam's team and you have a definite part to do," says Mr. West. "You may never have another chance to do a good turn on such a scale and for such a cause as you have at this moment."

Hindu Ascetics Revived After Three Months Under Ground.

Returned Missionary Tells of Remarkable Performance of Religious Fanatics in India.

Rev. Dr. J. C. E. Ewing, missionary to India, who recently returned to the United States after 38 years in the country of the rajahs and mahatmas, was discussing the miraculous things reported of the Hindu ascetics and admitted that he has been obliged to tell of some things which he has seen, but does not understand. Doctor Ewing said:

"It is certainly true that the Hindu magicians perform some tricks which our best sleight-of-hand performers are unable to approach. I have seen some things without being able to account for them, but I am, nevertheless, certain that they are all tricks. One of the best of these was an exhibition with cards. The performer placed a deck of cards upright in a glass. Then, taking another deck, he exposed a card and calling 'come, come' several times in his native language, the identical card which he was exhibiting rose out of the deck in the glass and stood where it could be seen by a large audience right on top of the deck, the performer at the same time exhibiting the card which he had selected. I believe that this was due to clever manipulation, though I suppose some persons would ascribe it to telepathy.

"I have seen the trick of making a plant grow from a seed before the eyes, and this, too, I believe, is the result of manipulation. A curtain is placed around the vessel and then removed, and the plant shown expanding and growing.

"Somewhat more difficult to be skeptical about, however, are the performances of the Hindu ascetics, and some of these are possibly the results of religious fanaticism. I know of the case of a man who lay 14 years on a bed of spikes. That is, he was said to have lain there 14 years. Eventually, of course, he died of his sufferings. I saw the man myself, and there was no reason to doubt the tales of the length of time of his torture.

"I know also that the stories of men going into a catatonic state and being buried alive are true. The tongue is pulled out as far as it can be pulled and then turned back into the victim's throat and he becomes unconscious, all animation being apparently suspended. He is buried, and after remaining in the ground for a period as long as three months in some cases, he is dug up and resuscitated.

"The theory upon which these tortures are endured is that our separate existence is a mistaken notion and that, only by asceticism is it possible to overcome the mistake and realize unity with all things. The teaching, which has been evolved by the Hindu ascetics is very beautiful and very attractive for a certain type of mind, but it is after all nothing but a form of atheism. The Christian religion is spreading rapidly in India, especially among the lower classes and we have great difficulty in taking care of the converts. Among the higher classes it is spreading, too, although formal as sent to it is slow on account of the severity of the caste ostracism which follows conversion. The English government has the country well in hand and it would seem that the country is destined for a very rapid development both in Christianity and democracy.

Shameful Secret.

"Who is that beautiful girl over there?" "She's the daughter of a corporation lawyer. But keep it from her, old man. She is sensitive, and has been brought up in ignorance of the fact!"—Life.
